

EMORY Department of Gynecology
UNIVERSITY and Obstetrics
SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

The Department of Gynecology & Obstetrics is seeking physicians committed to an academic career in obstetrics and gynecology. The position will hold a rank of Assistant Professor, Associate Professor or Professor, commensurate with qualifications and experience.

This position will serve as a minimally invasive gynecologic surgeon (MIGS) for the Division of Gynecologic Specialties within the Department of Gynecology and Obstetrics with an active inpatient and outpatient practice focused on the evaluation and surgical treatment of benign gynecologic conditions.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Responsibilities include teaching medical students and residents, participation in the Obstetric Rapid Response Team, inpatient and outpatient obstetrics and gynecologic surgery. Candidates should be comfortable in providing a broad spectrum of obstetrical and gynecologic care to medically complex patients. The faculty member is expected to serve the University in areas of teaching, research, and clinical service appropriate to their professional training and capabilities and their career goals.

Primary clinical responsibilities would be participation in all the clinical activities of the Division of Gynecologic Specialties at Emory, particularly its clinical activities at The Emory Clinic and Emory University Hospitals. The faculty member would be expected to deliver excellent care to patients while growing and expanding access for routine obstetrical and gynecological patients in the Emory clinical practices. Faculty members are expected to supervise mid-level providers assigned to the clinical practice location.

The faculty member would be expected to participate group call providing consultative weekend and night coverage for the practice as needed. Responsibilities would include providing inpatient gynecology coverage and obstetric backup. Participation in call coverage may change as part of a gynecology coverage and programmatic development within the Division and as part of the MIGS program.

Faculty Members are also be expected to demonstrate outstanding activity in the teaching aspects of the Department. Specifically, this would include:

- Providing teaching instruction and supervision to residents and medical students in Gynecology and Obstetrics.
- Providing lectures to fellows, residents and medical students as requested.
- Attending Grand Rounds, M&M Conferences, Journal Club, Division meetings and other Departmental activities.
- Participating in mentorship of medical students and residents.

Qualifications:

Qualified candidates must have a terminal degree (MD or DO), successfully completed a 4-year ACGME-accredited obstetrics and gynecology residency program and be Board Eligible or Board Certified in obstetrics and gynecology. Training in minimally invasive gynecologic surgery (MIGS) is preferred. Licensure by the Georgia Composite Medical Board will be required prior to commencement of employment.

Review of candidates will begin immediately; for fullest consideration, please submit a CV and a letter of interest.

Interested candidates are encouraged to apply on the Emory Careers website at <https://faculty-emory.icims.com/jobs/111283/job>.

The Department of Gynecology and Obstetrics:

For more than 75 years, the Department of Gynecology and Obstetrics has provided excellence in health care services, research, and education for a racially, ethnically, and socioeconomically diverse population from adolescence through menopause. Emory Gynecology and Obstetrics is part of Emory University's School of Medicine, a globally recognized leader in health care innovation, and the Emory Clinic and Emory Healthcare, a comprehensive health system that includes hospitals, offices, and research facilities.

As part of a university-based health care system, our department has access to state-of-the-art resources and tools. Our physicians and researchers are engaged in translating the latest research and advances into effective practice. This rapidly growing department seeks innovative solutions for addressing health disparities and ensuring health equity for all women.

The Department of Gynecology and Obstetrics, together with Emory University School of Medicine, is fully committed to the shared values of diversity and inclusion in order to achieve and sustain excellence. We firmly believe that we best promote excellence by recruiting and retaining a diverse group of faculty and staff promoting a sense of inclusion and belonging for every member of our community. This climate for diversity, inclusion and excellence is critical to attaining the best scholarship, teaching, and research.